Your Honor: Peabody, Arch and Patriot Coal have an obligation they should abide to. Their own employees who for years have worked to support their families and at the same time making money for their employer. The coal companies made the promise of lifetime health care. I am not a lawyer but it seems to me Peabody and Arch are trying to abandon the same people who helped them make money. I am a retired miner in Alabama and never worked for any of the companies in this law suit, I worry that if this is allowed then my home coal company would try it.

Thank you,
Jeff Wilkes
